SHYOU HUNG, 235 W. 35th St., second fl.; 718-730-5861; shyouthung.com

→ SHYOU HUNG'S FACIALS start at $200. "The location is how she keeps her prices low," says author Becky Cooper, who started seeing Hung last year in her nondescript office near Penn Station. Cooper wanted glowing skin ahead of her wedding, so she signed on for regular deep-cleansing treatments that include a firm massage and extractions to reduce the chance of a breakout. "Now, I see her every quarter at the change of season. Her extractions are so good that my father, who doesn't notice anything, can tell after I've gone without me mentioning it," Cooper says. Liz Livingstone, who told Cooper about Hung, has been seeing the aesthetician for six years. "First to deal with acne problems, then, after I had kids, to work on texture and anti-aging," Livingstone explains. Hung uses radio frequency and facial massage on her during remodeling treatments ($290), which come with a face mask for hydration.
